Married to the Job Married to the Job is a 2015 Canadian documentary film directed by James M. Gray. Synopsis To build one of the world's largest cruise ships, Meyer Werft of Germany was granted significant tax breaks by the state of North Carolina in the 1980s, while a competing shipyard in China was set up as a compromise between the interests of its four workers' states. In the present, over 30 years later, those workers and their families, past and present, are left to deal with the fallout of a compromise that the Chinese were not willing to meet. Awards On February 17, 2016, at the 9th Canadian Screen Awards, the film was nominated in the category of Best Social Awareness Campaign, and won in the category of Best Education Film.
