Since they are vector icons, they can be resized to any size without losing quality. Gonadotropin-releasing hormone receptors in the rat adrenal medulla. In the present study, the characteristics of gonadotropin-releasing hormone (GnRH) receptors in the rat adrenal medulla were examined using an in vitro radioreceptor assay. GnRH receptors in the rat adrenal medulla were also examined using immunohistochemistry and Western blot analysis. In the present study, a radioreceptor assay revealed that rat adrenal medulla possessed GnRH receptors. The relative potency of GnRH on the dissociation constant (Kd) was as follows: GnRH, 10(-8)M greater than GnRH (1-10), GnRH (1-10) (10) greater than GnRH (1-9) greater than GnRH (1-8), GnRH (1-7), GnRH (1-6), GnRH (1-5), GnRH (1-4), GnRH (1-3), GnRH (1-2), GnRH (1), GnRH, GnRH (5-10) and GnRH (4-10) greater than GnRH (3-10) greater than GnRH (1-2). The binding capacity was 11.2 +/- 0.9 fmol/mg protein, which was approximately 1000 times the Kd value of GnRH. In addition, the Ki values of several GnRH analogs were determined: [D-Tyr6]GnRH-II, [D-Trp6, D-Phe7]GnRH-II, [D-Trp6, D-Phe7, D-Tyr6]GnRH-II, [D-His6]GnRH-II and [D-Trp6, D-Phe7, D-Tyr6]GnRH-II, were 5, 3, 4, 6 and 6 times the Ki value of GnRH, respectively. However, these analogs did not exhibit specific binding to the rat adrenal medulla. Moreover, the IC50 value of GnRH for the GnRH receptor was calculated. GnRH was found to be a more potent agonist than GnRH (5-10) and GnRH (1-3) at doses of 10(-8)M and 10(-10)M, respectively. The expression of GnRH receptors in the adrenal medulla was examined using immunohistochemistry and Western blot analysis. GnRH receptors were localized in the zona glomerulosa and zona fasciculata of the adrenal medulla, but not in the adrenal cortex. A Western blot analysis revealed the presence of a protein band of M(r) 40,000 in the adrenal medulla, which exhibited the same M(
