The detailed and highly responsive on-field gameplay is powered by all new Human Intelligence Engine (HUE) powered by the Havok Physics Engine. Enhanced Player Impact Physics and Motion Analysis deliver superior performance on Xbox One X. An all-new Engine will also be powering the much anticipated FIFA Ultimate Team, also launching on September 26. The game's new Live Tiles-style interface makes it simple to view and activate tactics on the pitch, making it easier than ever to find the perfect gameplay formation. Ultimate Team FUT also introduces the all-new Goalscorer Mode, giving players the opportunity to try their hand at scoring and create entirely new paths to victory. In FIFA 22, the first stage of the Carrera World Tour has started. Everyone will receive an in-game car! FIFA 22 also introduces FIFA Ultimate Team. FIFA 22 will be available digitally for Xbox One, PlayStation 4 and PC Sept. 26. PlayStation 3 and Xbox 360 versions will be of passing, dribbling, and shooting to better ball control, options to use on the fly, and goalkeepers including control and awareness of the area of play, FIFA is a smarter, more balanced, and more satisfying football experience than ever before. The core game has also been refined, delivering a smoother and more accurate passing experience and more balance between teams. Powered by Football™ Join in the fun with a variety of new gameplay features, including a familiar 2-4-2 formation, new free kicks, improved free kicks, new shot patterns, a Referee Engine that adapts quickly to dynamic situations, and new goal animations. Smarter Passing To ensure the game remains balanced for all teams, FIFA has fundamentally re-worked how footballers control the ball to make passing more balanced. Certain game situations will make it easier to pick out a teammate as the player controls the ball, and calling for a teammate will be easier to pull off in these situations. FIFA's passing system also reacts to situations on the pitch in order to make the game feel more balanced and realistic
